U. S. Security Official Sets Speech Here

James Seldon Lay Jr., executive secretary of the National Security Council, will address the VMI Club tomorrow at 6:15 p.m. in the Roof Garden of the Hotel John Marshall.

Lay is a 1933 graduate of Virginia Military Institute and a former employe of the Virginia Electric and Power Co.

He also holds a master's degree from the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

Lay has worked in various phases of intelligence since 1941, serving with the Military Intelligence Division of the War Department General Staff, the Joint Intelligence Committee and the Central Intelligence Agency.

He has been with the National Security Council since its formation in 1947. Tomorrow night's talk will be on the current functions of that organization.
